

Mercedes Shortens Passenger Car Production

(Automobilwoche, 21st edition, 6th October 2008)

Content:

As a result of the strongly recessive demand, Mercedes-Benz will shorten the passenger car production for the next months by 35.000 vehicles. Insiders confirm the fact that the sales department has again adjusted the figures downwards.

Thus, Mercedes stands with 80.000 units below the original plan together with the production reductions announced in the summer.